

STAFF		TITLE	ACHIEVEMENT AWARD
Abe-Jones, Yumiko		Data Manager, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	Yumiko has helped transform the way the division is able to access and use data to support research and quality improvement projects. She has a strong work ethic and is committed to continuous learning, as evidenced by her self-directed efforts to learn new skills that are directly applicable to her job and make her work even more impactful.
Black, Doug		Research Project Manager , Division of HIV, ID & Global Medicine	Doug is unfailingly professional and dedicated to his work. In his role, Doug expertly manages complex webs of high value tasks with speed and creativity, spanning multiple countries, regulatory agencies, companies, and spanning hundreds of individuals. He has great respect for others and makes everyone around him feel involved, valued, and respected.
Bonini, Cissie		Director of EatSF, Division of General Internal Medicine at ZSFG	Cissie brings unceasing passion and a belief that EatSF is making a difference in the communities it serves. She has a unique capacity to orient everyone in the direction of trying to make the greatest impact possible given available resources. This continuous innovation is informed by the deep and authentic partnerships she has created with the program's diverse partners.
Cadabes, Cesar		Program Analyst, Division of Center for AIDS Research	Cesar uses his leadership skills, knowledge of and relationships with community partners, and inclusive communications strategy to help position the UCSF-Gladstone Center for AIDS Research as a national leader in HIV Health Disparities. He is a champion for diversity, and his professionalism and respect in responding to the feedback from community partners help build the relationships necessary to lead the program forward.
Chen, Ed		Applications Programmer, DOM Central Administration	Ed is the sole developer for several portals used by the Department of Medicine and other University units, including the performance evaluation portal and CEMRP2 portal. He is always professional and respectful in his interactions with staff and faculty of all levels, and works around the clock to improve and streamline processes in the department.
Cheng, Christine		Partner Relations Director, Division of General Internal Medicine at UCSF Health	In her main role as Partner Relations Director, Christine drives cross-sector, private, public, not for profit, and community partnerships. She is highly focused, mission-driven, works with high standards, and has the ability to inspire team members no matter how big the challenge.

Hartman, Erin		Project and Editorial Director, PSNet, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	AHRQ frequently refers to PSNet as the jewel in their patient safety crown, and much of this owes to Erin's work. She has managed to consistently produce a product that always delivers, on time, on budget, with superb quality. She has been an invaluable partner in advancing patient safety at UCSF and on the national level.
Lam, Christine		Administrative Analyst, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	Christine works tirelessly on behalf of the faculty of DHM to make sure all services are covered. She consistently assists with acute staffing needs that occur during nights and weekends and is incredibly responsive, available, and helpful in filling these gaps in the schedule.
Lau, Susan		Research Financial Analyst, Division of Experimental medicine	Susan is a skilled research financial analyst who consistently treats others with empathy and kindness. Throughout her career, she has provided coverage to several DOM divisions while maintaining her own portfolio – a testament to her dedication and impact to the department.
Lee, Serena		Senior Financial Analyst, Division of Infectious Diseases at UCSF Health	Serena provides outstanding post-management grant support and has dedicated beyond 100% effort to ensure that the division's research faculty and their teams can successfully manage sponsored projects and conduct clinical trials. Her friendly demeanor, positive attitude, expertise, and efficiency have impressed many faculty.
Li, Katherine		Assistant Division Manager, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	Kat exemplifies excellence in everything that she does by working quickly, accurately, and efficiently. She is an extremely dedicated employee and her wealth of knowledge helps the division's faculty and staff every day. She also helps support each staff member she manages and has built on their individual strengths to ensure they all excel in their roles.
Lisker, Sarah		Program Manager, Division of General Internal Medicine at ZSFG	Sarah's enthusiasm and willingness to offer support to everyone, including people who are not on her team or even her department, is an inspiration to everyone who works with her. Her dedication to her work is exemplified by her tenacity and can-do attitude to see a task through even when faced by seemingly insurmountable odds.
Marks, Angela		PCQN Deputy Director, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	Angela excels in every aspect of her job and has continually increased her skills, responsibility, abilities and leadership in her role, growing it far beyond where it began. In the past year she has successfully led several critical initiatives that have improved, extended and solidified PCQN's work.

Melcher, Gregory		MSP Physician, Division of Infectious Diseases at UCSF Health	Greg is an amazing role model to ID fellows and is able to navigate even the most challenging patient interactions with ease. He is a phenomenal teacher who also provides support and motivation to others. He is the ultimate professional, shows respect to all his colleagues and staff, is a model of integrity, and has demonstrated sustained excellence in his clinical knowledge of infectious diseases.
Moore, Justin		Staff and Faculty Experience Specialist, DOM Central Administration	Justin not only works with those around him in his role to advance the concepts of diversity, equity and inclusion, but he lives them each and every day, thus championing these principles in a way that few others can. He is the epitome of respect and professionalism, and brings enthusiasm, a strong work ethic, and a real feeling of pride and responsibility to everything he does at UCSF.
Neumann, Alicia		Program Director of the Optimizing Aging Collaborative (OAC), Division of Geriatrics	Alicia has been masterful in bringing together more than 50 faculty, fellows, community health providers, social service providers and aging organization leaders across multiple health systems to accomplish the aims and objectives of the OAC. Her professionalism shines through in the wonderful rapport she has built with all of the OAC's partners, and she is dedicated to improve the care of older adults.
Oza, Karishma		HIVE Program Coordinator, Division of HIV, ID & Global Medicine	Karishma is consistently is thinking about how to innovate and make improvements on behalf of the HIVE clinic's patients. She is always on the lookout for ways to educate herself on issues of reproductive and racial justice and in turn brings this focus to her work and personal interactions with colleagues and others around her.
Remedios, Lynn		Analyst, Division of Gastroenterology at UCSF Health	Lynn has gracefully and enthusiastically provided cross coverage for most administrative functions in the GI division while others were on leave or during position vacancies. She has made significant and sustained contributions to the division and is a professional, respectful, and valued member of the division.
Schuler, Virginia		Internal Medicine Residency Program Manager, Division of Education	Virginia is professional in all interactions and communication with candidates, residents, co-workers and faculty. Her enthusiasm is contagious and she is often the first person to volunteer for a committee or to assist someone with a question. Virginia was also instrumental in implementing the new processes and new web-based recruitment system.

Sheira, Lila		Research Data Analyst, Division of HIV, ID & Global Medicine	Sheira is an indispensable, exceptional and highly valued member of our research staff. She has transformed the productivity of our research group and increased the pace of our publications and grant pipelines. Extremely professional, creative and insightful, Sheira is eager and motivated to work hard and produce high quality work.
Sou, Caroline		Operations Analyst, Division of Geriatrics	Caroline possesses an unwavering, infectious positive attitude and goes above and beyond her usual role to help others in the division. As the "face" of the division, Caroline ensures her interactions with everyone she encounters (at all organizational levels) are positive and professional. She anticipates needs and is tenacious in following through all requests to meticulous completion.
Sterling, Lauren		Managing Director, Center for AIDS Research (CFAR)	As Managing Director, Lauren has raised the profile of UCSF-Gladstone CFAR across campus, with our partner institutions, in the Bay Area, in California, and within the national NIH CFAR network. Her openness and enthusiasm for HIV research capacity building and junior investigator development has helped our partnerships to grow and positions us to be ready to address the next stages of the HIV response.
Toy, Julia		Internal Medicine Residency Scheduler, Division of Education	Julia has consistently exceeded expectations with her attention to detail, strong work ethic and incredible problem-solving ability. She demonstrates excellence in her work through a continual drive to improve current processes. She is a hard-working self-starter who always understands the big picture, and how to get professional results quickly and accurately.
Tripathi, Sangeeta		HEAL Strategy and Operations Director, Division of Hospital Medicine at UCSF Health	Sangeeta has been able to transform HEAL's operations to deliver a very high quality fellowship while increasing staff morale. She is incredibly hardworking, organized, and committed to HEAL's mission. She has led strategic priorities and relationships that have transformed our partnerships and led the way to strengthen these partnerships in the coming years.
Wallenta, Jeanna		Epidemiologist, Division of HIV, ID & Global Medicine	Jeanna is unfailingly sincere and trustworthy, and thinks both about how to get something done as well as the most ethical and responsible way to do things - reflecting her innate sense of integrity. She has successfully created a working environment where people of diverse perspectives and backgrounds can engage on equal footing.

Weix, Peggy		Division Manager , Division of Experimental medicine	Peggy responds to challenges in the division with incredible professionalism, poise and grace, and genuine respect and compassion for each faculty and staff. By treating everyone with professionalism, respect, integrity, and a genuine sense of caring, she has contributed to an outstanding environment where people feel motivated and engaged, while upholding UCSF's PRIDE values.
Wong, Dawnee		Housestaff Coordinator, DOM-ZSFG Central Administration	Dawnee exemplifies professionalism and integrity as a housestaff coordinator. She is committed to her work and displays a strong desire to provide high quality service while also improving processes. She recognized the need to improve onboarding for students on the Medicine rotation and created a process map that has resulted in an improved work flow for trainee onboarding.
Woo, Kathy		Project Manager, DOM Central Administration	As project manager for the PE portal, Kathy oversaw the successful expansion of the portal from 800 to 4500 staff users in the last year. She demonstrated professionalism and respect in all of her interactions with more than 150 managers and PE liaisons, providing tactful responses to even the most challenging emails and questions.
Zhu, Branden		Clinical Financial Analyst, Division of Hematology/Oncology at UCSF Health	Branden has worked with incredible professionalism, integrity, and excellence this year. Consistently thoughtful, detail-oriented, and precise in his work, Branden has sought out ways to make improvements to financial processes in the Division and has vastly improved the financial reporting for the division.